Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-16 and 18-19, drawn to substantially anhydrous lubricant compositions, classified in class 508, subclass 202.
  - II. Claims 20-23 and 25, drawn to methods of applying compositions to skin or mucosal surfaces, classified in class 424, subclass 430.
  - III. Claim 24, drawn to a method of treating frostbitten skin, classified in class 424, subclass 1+.
  - IV. Claim 17, drawn to a method of treating skin or mucosal surfaces, classified in class 424, subclass 1+.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and (II, and III) are clearly patentable independent and distinct since the methods of Group II and the method of Group III, do not use the compositions of Group I which require that the composition is substantially anhydrous and has a gelling agent which are not requirements of the compositions used in the method claims.
3. Inventions II and III and IV are clearly patentable independent and distinct since the method of Group III is drawn to a method of treating frostbitten skin whereas the methods of Group III and IV are basically drawn to treating non-frostbitten skin, and the method of Group IV uses a patentable independent and distinct composition from that used in Groups II and III.
4. Inventions I and IV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used as a suspending agent for solid particles, such as in a milling operation.

5. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
